We Honor . . .

When Shakespeare wrote, late in the sixteenth century, of King Henry IV, Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown, little did he know, then, that he was purporting a thesis which was to summarize the life of the modern day executive. Today's fast pace, coupled with the pressures of economic control and the desire for corporate survival, has made the lot of this man seemingly unbearable if not impossible.

No business leader is exempt from this destiny, and our own dear President, Father Hussey, is no exception. Loyola University is indeed very fortunate to have as its head a man who, regardless of these every day strifes has continued, in his untiring effort, to make our University a leader in Catholic Education.

It is because of these facts that we take great pride and pleasure in dedicating this publication, The 1955 Towers, to the Very Reverend James T. Hussey, S.J., in acknowledgment of his ten successful years as President of Loyola University.

When Father Hussey took office in 1945, he was immediately faced with the problem of coping with an entirely new concept in higher education, that of government subsidized schooling. The benefits of the GI Bill brought with them new problems and challenges to the school administrator.

These challenges were met head on by our President, who promptly went to work to analyze and propose working solutions for handling the sudden flood of students who rushed to Loyola's doors.

Acquisition of the Lewis Towers campus and certain modifications of office procedures brought about facilities that were to allow Loyola to handle the largest enrollment it has ever known.

But, this milestone in his career is not the only reason why we honor this man. The fact that a university must serve the community seems to have been a major point in Father Hussey's administrative program. Through his vigilance and guidance, the City of Chicago has been made cognizant of the fact that this Jesuit institution is to be regarded as a prominent arc in the educational circle of this great city.

In doing all these things, he has always had in mind one thing, the welfare of the student. Never has he forgotten the importance of the student as an individual. The addition of the Law Building and the construction of the Lake Shore dormitory, plus the plan for the new Medical School will long stand out as magnanimous achievements of his tenure of office. Here indeed is a man truly devoted to Loyola.

We also want to speak of Father Hussey, the man and the priest. He has always brought admiration and esteem to the white collar of the Jesuit order. Prudence and thoughtfulness are reflected in his every decision be it large or small. The motto, "Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam", has become an inherent part of his life, a watchword by which he really lives and has inspired others to live.

Father Hussey, we salute you and earnestly ask God to continue to shower upon you all of His blessings, for we know that in the years to come, you will never cease in your attempts to bring bigger and better things to Loyola.

1955 Story

The aim of the Jesuit Fathers who administer Loyola University is to educate the whole man, spiritually, intellectually, physically, and socially. Examination of a typical year, 1955, at Loyola will show us how this is accomplished.

We will long remember 1955 for the many things that it held for us. For many, it marked the achievement of one of Life's most sought after goals — the receiving of a college degree. For others it marked the beginning of a rough road toward the attainment of that goal. It was a wonderful year, and we can see why by looking back on some of its memorable moments.

It all began last September. In the midst of our summer employment, we received a "greeting" from Loyola informing us that classes would resume in the near future. It may seem hard to believe, but many were glad to return. If it was not the eagerness to acquire new knowledge that prompted their return, it was the thought of seeing their old friends which helped them get back into the swing of things.

The Solemn Mass of the Holy Ghost officially marked the beginning of another academic year. About a month later school was dismissed for three days in order to enable us to make a retreat. This, the Jesuit Fathers believe, is one of the many things which help develop the man spiritually.

Next came the Miss Varsity Contest. All of the Fraternities presented their choice for the campus coed to represent Loyola during the next year. The student body voted, and the winner was announced at the Fall Frolic. The winner, Miss Sharon Hale, an Arts sophomore, was a worthy recipient of the honor. She represented Alpha Kappa Psi's choice of the coed who would represent Loyola throughout the coming year.

The Fall Frolic provided a happy ending for the first true ordeal of the semester, the mid-term exams. Coffee sales increased and people began to look haggard as the time of the exams drew nearer. The Fall Frolic was just the beginning of the most inviting events in the school year, the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Just before Thanksgiving an assembly was called to inform us that there would be a 1955 Towers. It was our hope that the book would be bigger and better so that it might well represent the College of Commerce.

December brought with it the opening of the basketball season. If the enthusiasm that was shown in the float parade was

President, Loyola University

The Student Council of the College of Commerce is to be commended for its enterprise in assuming a large and significant task such as the publication of a yearbook.

The successful completion of months of tireless effort and sacrifice by the Staff of the 1955 Towers has resulted in another beautiful annual, a book that will serve as a pictorial reminder of the highlights of the past two semesters.

Commerce students will, I am certain, often turn to this yearbook in the future to recall the start of lasting friendships made at Loyola and the occasions for many pleasant experiences undergone during college days.

The editorial staff of the 1955 Towers has gained valuable experience by its successful completion of an enormous task. Its accomplishment is an almost certain guaranty that individuals on the staff have learned to explore and solve a difficult problem.

Congratulations to a fine group of Loyolans for a job well done.

REV. JEREMIAH J. O'CALLAGHAN, S. J.
Vice-President, Loyola University

My Dear Commerce Students:

We have reason to congratulate the 1955 graduates of the College of Commerce of Loyola University.

Recent history has proved how important it is for national and international welfare that sound principles of economic and social justice be communicated to society by men informed of these principles and by men capable of interpreting them in the realistic procedures of the daily progress of the world of commerce and finance. We know that the graduates of 1955 of Loyola University's College of Commerce are well equipped to benefit society in these areas.

May God bless their efforts. Their University will watch them with paternal solicitude.

*Sincerely yours in Christ,
Jeremiah J. O'Callaghan, S.J.*

TO THE CLASS OF 1955:

Soon after G Day most of you will make your plunge from the academic springboard into new and open waters. You will swim with hope and confidence towards the distant shores you discern on the misty horizon. The shoals and reefs and pounding surfs, considered only as hypothetical dangers as you splashed in the scholastic pool, may become very real and menacing out there in the open sea. I hope your college has given you knowledge and strength for the adventure.

When time has run considerably on its way and, years after your graduation, you may have occasion to open this book and finger through the pages reminding you of four very special years in your life, please be reminded, too, that your college — your university — can never be better than YOU permit it to be. Your reputation is Loyola's reputation; Loyola's achievement is your achievement. You alumni are the living body of Loyola University. Have you helped this body to grow in all the spiritual and material things necessary for a great university?

Sincerely,

J. Raymond Sheriff

The Dean of Students and the Dean of Women are found in Room 804 at Lewis Towers.

Since the Rev. Lawrence Lynch, S.J., became ill in the early part of the year, Harry McCloskey has taken over that position as acting dean. Mr. McCloskey is also moderator of the Loyola Union and as such, co-ordinates the Union activities in a manner most beneficial to the student body of Loyola University. In being chairman of the Committee on Student Activities and Welfare Mr. McCloskey regulates the affairs of all student groups.

Miss Mariette Le Blanc is the Dean of Women. She counsels and offers helpful suggestions to all coeds in the university. Miss Le Blanc is also Moderator of the Coed Club and takes an active part in the planning of the club's functions.

Accounting Department

Realizing the need for qualified personnel in the accounting profession, this department, since its founding has striven to require the highest standard of education. It is for this reason that training in accounting problems which require the co-ordination of many fluctuating and interrelated variables may well develop the latent talent of an expert coordinator. Since accounting is the language of business it seems almost certain that the main objective of the course is to familiarize the student with approved methods and afford adequate preparation for C.P.A. while acquainting him with other fields of commerce.

Under the very able direction of Mr. Henry

T. Chamberlain, Accounting Department Chairman, it has attempted to offer sufficient guidance to C.P.A. candidates. The C.P.A. Review offered at Loyola has received recognition as one of the best in the country.

For those who are planning a career in business it is wise to learn first the language of business, which is accounting. It is with this idea in mind that accounting is considered a "must" for the modern businessman.

Whether it is studied in preparation for the C.P.A. profession or just general knowledge, the Accounting Curriculum at Loyola provides an excellent background for any position in the commercial field.

Business Law Department

Mr. John D. O'Malley, Mr. John A. Zvetina, Mr. L. Claude Dollahan.

Business Law, organized in 1925, became a separate department in the College of Commerce in 1948.

The Department of Business Law has for its main purpose the training of the students in the various branches of Business Law in accordance with the Jesuit aims of education which stress the training of the full man — his cultural material, and especially his spiritual well-being.

This main purpose is achieved through the integration of the subjects of Business Law with other branches of cultural study; through the demonstration of the role which the system of the common law, supplemented by statute, has played, and continues to play in the development of our Christian democratic civilization in the West.

The secondary, but nonetheless important purpose of the department is to develop the mind and analytical skills of the student by the case method so that he will be able to recognize in his later business life a legal problem and have some concept of its solution in terms of law. It is not the aim of this course to develop students to be lawyers or act as such. It is important that they be able to recognize a legal problem so that proper steps may be taken at the inception to protect their legal rights and prevent unnecessary losses.

The chairman of the department is Mr. John A. Zvetina, and he is assisted by Mr. John D. O'Malley in the day classes. Dean Sheriff is also a member of this department.

Economics - Finance Department

Economics is such a broad field that at Loyola it is divided into two primary areas. In one area, the curriculum deals more directly with finance. The other area deals more directly with macro and micro analysis and the development of economic theory.

In spite of this, it is organized as one department, and functions as two separate fields of concentration. The only distinction that can be made between the two fields is that all finance falls under the category of economics, but not all economics can be classified as finance.

The primary objectives of the Department of Economics have been defined by Dr. T. A. Mogilnitsky who is Chairman of this department. The objectives of the department of Economics and Finance are so to teach economics and finance as to prepare students to become responsible citizens, intelligent and moral professional men, and to lay the foundation for, as well as to encourage graduate work.

This goal of the department is achieved in class instruction by combining the teaching of economic laws with discussions of ethical implications of both sides and by making references to an ideal which arises from the discussion. The department believes that all human activities including economics, should be treated in the light of moral principles.

The department also seeks to keep the student abreast of the latest economic developments through the presentation of new research data which has been interpreted and evaluated by its instructors.

Dr. Edward J. Taaffe, Dr. Theodore Purcell, S.J., Dr. Sylvester M. Frizol, Mr. Alfred S. Oskamp, Dr. Theodosi A. Mogilnitsky, Dr. Joseph O. Englet, Dr. Helen C. Potter.

Management Department

The fundamental objectives of the Management Department are: (1) to develop in the student the ability to make decisions on the higher levels of managerial authority and responsibility; (2) cultivation and application of the understanding that when management relates itself to man, human values and spiritual values come before material values and (3) cultivation of the realization that only when the virtues of charity, unselfishness, and justice set straight the hearts of men will the minds of men set straight the world of business.

The Department has for its specific objective the training of the student so that he may be able to take his place in, and function effectively in a "top" managerial position. To enable the student to do this, the Management seeks to train the student so that he may know and possess skill in the application of the basic principles of business management. An executive without principles is like a physician without medical knowledge.

The Chairman of the Management Department is Dr. Peter T. Swanish. The faculty members under him are: Rev. T. V. Purcell, S.J., Dr. W. H. Peterson, Mr. J. V. McCullough, and Mr. M. Bowen.

Mr. Joseph V. McCullough, Dr. Peter T. Swanish, Chairman, Dr. Theodore V. Purcell, S.J., Dr. Walter H. Peterson.

Marketing Department

The Marketing Department was formed in September, 1948. It consisted of one Chairman-instructor, Dr. Haas, who taught six courses in this field. Since then it has made remarkable strides in development, and today eleven courses are taught covering many aspects in the Marketing field. At present, the department, headed by Dr. K. B. Haas, is composed of Mr. H. L. McCloskey, Dr. W. F. Caskey, Mr. C. A. Slater, Dr. O. A. Smalley, Mr. L. A. Allen.

The Department seeks to integrate its instructions with the broad aims of the University, the College of Commerce and other departments, so that the students may emerge from the University as well-rounded men or women, rather than being overexposed in certain aspects and underexposed in others. It seeks also to give the students theoretical and practical business experience in the field of distribution and to induce them to continue a self-education process after formal schooling has ended.

The students of Marketing are taught to become Marketing executives who can deal with policy problems and make decisions; who analyze conditions and trends and make satisfactory recommendations as to appropriate action. This is accomplished by training the students in the study of marketing research, the history of marketing, and problems of distribution.

any indication of what the Loyolans were hoping for, their hopes were raised when the team defeated the Elmhurst quintet in the first encounter of the season. The Alpha Delt's float won the first place title among all the floats that were entered.

On December 1, 2, and 3 the College of Commerce received and entertained an inspection team from the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. This visit was part of the process of applying for and being admitted to membership in the nationwide organization. In order to be admitted, a college must meet the manifold high standards set by the organization.

In applying for membership, the College of Commerce submitted voluminous reports on its history, entrance requirements, graduation requirements, academic background, practical experience and teaching ability of each separate teacher in business fields.

A very favorable report of the inspection was subsequently made to the executive committee at its meeting in Detroit during Christmas week. The executive committee's approval was scheduled to be presented on April 30 to a vote of the full membership during its annual convention. Approval by the member deans was anticipated at the time this page went to press.

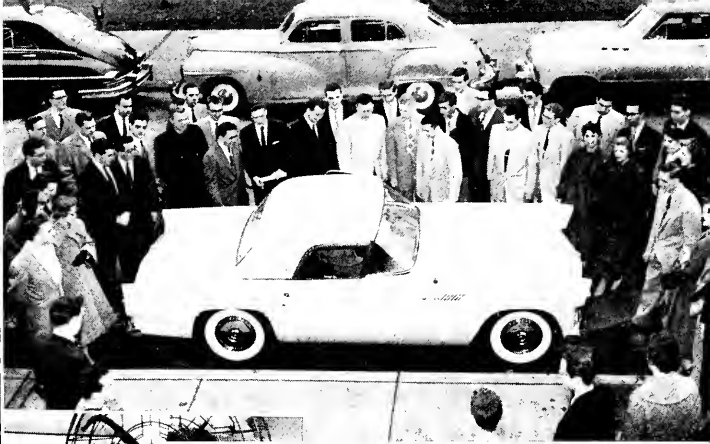

Further evidence of progress around Loyola could be seen by us as we returned from the basketball games and other social events at Lake Shore Campus. Just to the north of the campus, we observed the progress being made on the building of the new dormitories which next September will house Loyola students from all over the United States and many foreign lands.

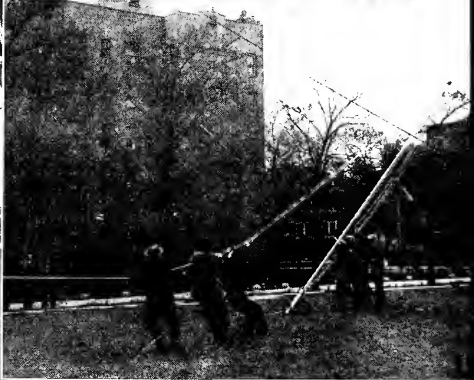

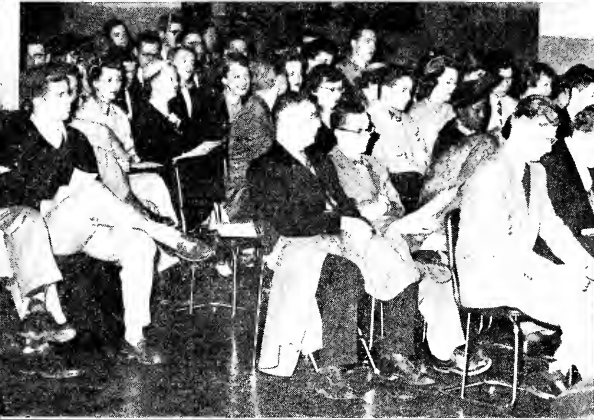

Advent came and we knew that soon Christmas would be here. The feast of the Immaculate Conception ended the special Marian Year. The close of the Marian Year left us waiting to hear word concerning the recovery of Our Holy Father from his illness.

The last day of class before the long holiday was almost unbearable. The sounds of caroling from the lounge and the chimes ringing out festive Christmas songs made concentration on debits and credits, methods of distribution, and Ancient History almost impossible. The gaiety continued at the Union's second big off-campus dance of the year, the Winter Frolic, held in the Grand Ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel. Lou Breeze and his band supplied the music for a night of enduring memories.

The elections for our Union Congressmen were held almost

Commerce Council

In the College of Commerce the student governing body is known as the Commerce Student Council. The Commerce Council membership is made up of the elected officers of the four classes. The President of the Senior Class becomes (ex officio) the Council President, the President of the Junior Class becomes Vice-President, the Sophomore President acts as Treasurer, the Freshman President as Secretary. Dean J. Raymond Sheriff functions as moderator, and together with him the Council strives to maintain a close relationship between the administration and the students.

It is the purpose of the Council to develop student self-government by organizing and systematizing student activities, by stimulating intra-class relationships and by fostering other such matters as will benefit the college as a whole. The objectives of the Council are the same as those of the University . . . the building of the Whole Man.

In line with these goals the Council is constantly driving to present an ever more encompassing student program. Among its projects this year was the publication of a student directory, The Party Line. Again this year the Towers, the Commerce Yearbook, was published. The Council also issued a brochure concerning the Commerce faculty in which there was given a brief outline of the background of each member. This was done in the hope of promoting better understanding between the faculty and the students.

In addition to these functions, the Council continued to sponsor its two mixers, Sports Night, a Variety Show, the Honors-Day Senior Dinner-Dance, and actively supported the Union Carnival.

In the past few years, the Commerce Council has been one of the most active student governmental bodies in the University. This is due to the firm support it has received from the students. With this in mind it may always be assured that the Student Council will continually endeavor to make life in the School of Commerce a more beneficial one; and, with the continued support of the students, it can offer bigger and better student programs.

Loyola Union

Student government at Loyola is based on the all-university as well as college and school level. The first regular meeting of the Loyola Union, known until then as the Interdepartmental Committee, was called to order December 11, 1928. The organization functioned until the United States' entry into World War II.

In 1946, at the request of the President of Loyola University, the Loyola Union was reorganized. The purpose of the present Union is seen in the preamble of the constitution.

"To unify the student body of Loyola University, to promote student unity in each school and college of the university, to provide liaison between the student body and the university, to support the religious program of the university, to encourage student academic and social societies, to govern the student body according to sound principles of self-government, to form and uphold traditions, to voice student opinion, to create wholesome relations among student organizations, to enlarge university life for succeeding generations of students, to meet the needs of a greater Loyola Student Body and of a greater Loyola University, to perpetuate the Loyola Union of Loyola University . . ."

All students who have registered and are in academic residence in any of the schools and colleges of Loyola University are members of the Loyola Union.

There is a permanent and representative body which is called the Congress and which meets in February, April, October and December in regular session, at the call of the President of the Union. It is composed of Union members selected in the month of January to serve from the February session of that year until the February session of the succeeding year. The members of the congress are known as congressmen.

There is selected by the student body of each school and college, in whatever manner determined by each, not less than two nor more than six union members.

Annually in the regular February meeting, the congress elects a board of governors, and such offices as a board member enjoys on the board will ipso facto establish him in the same office both of the Congress and in the Union.

The board meets regularly in each month from September through May and in special meetings at any other times of the calendar year at the call of the President.

The purpose of this organization is to foster the mental, moral and physical development of the students of the various colleges, to support student activities and to develop friendly relations between the students and the faculty.

Each year the Union sponsors a Fall Frolic, at which Miss Varsity is crowned and the Winter Frolic which is usually held off-campus. This year, for the second time in its history, it conducted a Fair to raise funds to be used by the Loyola Union.

Since 1904, when Alpha Kappa Psi was inaugurated as the first professional fraternity in the field of Business Administration, the number of its collegiate chapters has risen to eighty-seven.

Gamma Iota Chapter has the distinction of being the seventy-fifth chapter to join the ranks of the national fraternity. In the three years since its inception at Loyola, the chapter has served the University by counseling the Commerce underclassmen in the Career Day which Gamma Iota sponsors every April.

Also in a professional attitude, the chapter arranges professional speakers meetings and movies, with two tours each year.

Realizing that the members have needs other than purely academic ones, the chapter sponsors social and religious activities, too. Twice a year the members and their fathers unite for the Mass offered by Father Lester Evett, the fraternity Chaplain.

As for treating the lighter side of life, the fraternity sponsors more than a few social activities. Perhaps the most gala of these affairs is the traditional Golf Outing held in Wisconsin on a week end in June. Other social functions are the Hallowe'en Hayride, and the New Year's Eve and St. Patrick's Day parties.

Gamma Iota Chapter has done well in the Intramural Program during the past year. Support by a large number of the members, as well as tremendous teamwork, has given us one of our most successful seasons.

Another distinction achieved by Alpha Kappa Psi in 1954-55 was its candidate, Miss Sharon Hale, winning the Miss Varsity contest. This marked the second year in a row that the fraternity's candidate has won acclaim in the University.

So it is, then, that after just three years of existence the chapter has achieved a position at Loyola. That aim of the national fraternity: "... to further the individual welfare of the members of Alpha Kappa Psi", has seemingly been attained — and for this the members are extremely grateful to the moderator of Gamma Iota Chapter, Mr. Joseph V. McCullough.

Delta Sigma Pi is a professional fraternity in the field of commerce and business administration which was founded November 7, 1907, at New York University, to encourage scholarship, social activity, and the association of students for their mutual advancement. Since its founding over ninety-one chapters have been installed in accredited schools of commerce throughout the United States and Canada.

An international fraternity to unite the men of commerce at Loyola was the dream of Professor Howard Wilson. Through his efforts a petition was submitted for the installation of a chapter at Loyola. On September 30, 1950, Gamma Pi Chapter became a reality. The chapter grew in strength and number under the skillful guidance of its officers and moderator, Mr. Wilson.

In keeping with the professional aspects of its make-up, Gamma Pi offers both in and out-of-town tours and speakers to the membership as extracurricular training in their field of concentration. Movies on industry are offered weekly to all students of commerce as a service to the University.

The chapter sponsors at least one monthly activity which is held in the Key Club room. The highlight of each semester is the dinner dance honoring the new pledges.

To promote scholarship among the commerce students, Delta Sigma Pi awards a scholarship key to the male senior who upon graduation ranks the highest in scholarship.

The chapter has provided many outstanding student leaders who have devoted their time and effort to the University. Gamma Pi is recognized on the campus as an outstanding professional fraternity, socially, spiritually, and academically.

The members of Gamma Pi Chapter are thrice blessed in having as their moderator Dr. Frizol, who succeeded Mr. Wilson in February, 1952. We will never forget his unselfish attitude where the good of the fraternity and chapter is concerned.

The Coed Club was organized in the spring of 1949, the purpose of which, it was determined, was primarily social. The idea for this club arose when a group of women students became aware of a need for an organization to unify the women students of the day school. This group met with Miss Julia O'Malley, then Dean of Women and formed the present Coed Club.

The success of the Coed Club can be seen through the magnificent support of its members. In May, 1949, this success was first observed with the undertaking of a picnic which was to mark the first social venture of this new club. The splendid result of the picnic was enough evidence that this organization was desired by the women students.

This year's social program began with a Welcoming Tea for all the new women students of the University. Following the first few weeks of school a "Big Sister" party was given as a warm greeting to the incoming freshman women. Early in November the annual Card Party-Fashion Show was held. The main social event of the year is the Christmas Formal which was held this year at the Palmer House Hotel. In the second semester a dinner was held for the parents and daughters, in order to acquaint the parents with University activities. In addition to this the Club has various parties, and also sponsors an annual mixer. The last activity of the year was a "Farewell Dinner" for all graduating women students.

The Coed Club is fortunate in having as a moderator Miss Mariette LeBlanc, whose guidance has aided the club in all its activities.

The Coed Club of today is a well established social organization, which is an asset to the women students and Loyola University.

Alpha Delta Gamma Fraternity was founded at Loyola University located in Chicago, Illinois, during the year 1924. Fourteen Loyolans realizing the very tangible need for an organization quite different from those which were already existing on the campus, and desiring to bind themselves into stronger bonds of friendship, formed the nucleus of what is today a National Catholic Social Fraternity. Therefore Loyola University was very fittingly designed as the mother chapter, and was called Alpha Chapter, which is the first letter in the Greek alphabet.

No new chapters were added to the ranks until the post-war convention of 1947, held at Chicago, Illinois. At that time Eta Chapter from Quincy College, Quincy, Illinois, was inducted. This chapter was founded by a former "Alpha Delt" from Alpha Chapter who entered and was ordained into the Franciscan Order.

In 1948 several students from St. Norberts College, West DuPere, Wisconsin, expressed a firm and sincere desire to become affiliated with Alpha Delta Gamma Fraternity, and after sufficient deliberation, it was decided that Theta Chapter from St. Norberts should come into the hallowed brotherhood of Alpha Delta Gamma.

In 1952, at the convention held in Chicago, Loyola University of Los Angeles, California, was allowed to enter into this National Catholic Social Fraternity. The brothers in Alpha Delta Gamma voted on and approved the formation of a chapter at this school, and it is called Lambda Chapter.

At the most recent of annual conventions held by Alpha Delta Gamma Fraternity, Phi Omega Fraternity of Spring Hill College, Mobile, Alabama, asked to become a member chapter of Alpha Delta Gamma. After the convention delegates returned home to Spring Hill, they announced that what was formerly Phi Omega Fraternity was now Phi Omega Chapter of Alpha Delta Gamma — National Catholic Social Fraternity.

Kappa Beta Gamma is the only Jesuit sorority at Loyola. It was founded in 1920 at Marquette University, and since that time chapters have been organized in several Mid-western Jesuit universities.

Epsilon chapter, located at Loyola, was founded by ten coeds in December of 1953. It is open to all full time undergraduate women in all divisions of the university. Through a varied schedule of activities Kappa encourages the spiritual, educational, and social development of its members.

The agenda for the year includes three rushing teas each semester. The six week pledge period which follows is a constructive time during which the pledges become acquainted with the aims and ideals of the sorority and cooperate with the members in sorority projects. Formal initiation takes place at a dinner dance held each semester.

Kappa sponsors an annual closed retreat for its members and celebrates Founder's Day in May with Mass and a Communion Breakfast. The sorority is anxious to serve the university at all times. It has actively backed the women's intramural program. Kappa is very proud to be the winner of the prize for the most beautiful float in the float parade opening the basketball season of 1954-1955.

Kappa Beta Gamma is fortunate to have as its moderator the Reverend Richard E. Tischler, S.J., Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. It has been largely through his excellent judgement and guidance that the sorority experienced such success during its first year at Loyola.

Phi Mu Chi is the oldest social fraternity at Loyola University. It was founded at the University of Chicago in 1922, and in the same year Beta Chapter was organized at the Lake Shore Campus of Loyola.

The primary end of this fraternity is to further brotherly feeling and co-operation among its members, past and present. The attitude of Christian and brotherly co-operation is carried on not only within the fraternity but in the social and scholastic extracurricular activities of Loyola as well; the ideas being not only to further the primary end of the fraternity, but also to further the well-being of the university.

One of Loyola's big activities each year is Phi Mu Chi's sponsorship of their annual Easter Queenship Ball which features the crowning of a coed as Queen of the dance. This dance is open to all students and their friends and is held off-campus. The fraternity also holds a number of closed parties throughout the year in keeping with its tradition as a social fraternity.

Since its founding in 1924 by the Rev. James F. Mertz, S.J., Pi Alpha Lambda social fraternity has stressed the interests of Loyola while fostering high morals and scholastic standards among its members.

Under the direction of Dr. Paul Humert, who succeeded the Rev. John Kemp, S.J., as moderator in November of 1954, the fraternity has enjoyed new spirit in undertaking projects by which it hopes to further its aims. Among its projects is an increased interest and participation in the extracurricular activities that are offered by the non-fraternal organizations of the school. Another aim of the fraternity this year is a return to the old tradition of Loyola fraternities by acquiring a fraternity house.

Aside from these special interests, Pi Alpha Lambda has maintained its annual social and religious activities. Each year the members of the fraternity attend a closed retreat at Barrington, Illinois. Holy Week Services and a Family Communion Sunday are among its other religious activities which the fraternity sponsors.

Among its social activities, the fraternity features monthly closed parties for its members, two formal dances and an open mixer.

Always actively participating in the intramural program, the fraternity has consistently been among the leaders for top intra-school honors.

Made up of almost equal membership from the College of Arts and Sciences and from the College of Commerce, members of Pi Alpha Lambda may be found in the top posts of student government and on the roster of every varsity sport.

In 1933, this local social fraternity was organized for the purpose of uniting Loyola students of Polish extraction. In 1947, however, membership in this organization was opened to all male students regardless of creed or nationality.

Sigma Pi Alpha was founded in order to promote intellectual and social interest among its members, and to provide opportunities for their development, both morally and physically, in an atmosphere of friendship and cooperation.

Throughout the year Sigma Pi Alpha sponsors many social functions including smokers, socials, and mixers. The most important event on their social calendar and one much talked about at Loyola is their annual "Fraternity Man of the Year" dance which is held on the last school day of the semester. This year it will be held on June 3 at the Graemere Hotel. This dance is open to all students and their friends. The highlight of the evening is the awarding of a trophy to the male student who has proven himself as the most valuable man to his fraternity.

Sigma Pi Alpha is determined to continue as one of the outstanding fraternities on campus and keep up their tradition of offering a high spirit of brotherhood.

Tau Delta Phi, a national social fraternity, was founded in 1910 in the city of New York. This organization is proud to boast a membership of over five thousand members in its twenty-eight chapters located from coast to coast. Tau Eta, the chapter which is located at Loyola, was founded in 1949 through the efforts of Mr. Hy Krane. At present Tau Eta has eighteen active members, most of whom are pre-medical students.

The purpose of Tau Delta Phi Fraternity is to give students of the Jewish faith a voice in university affairs. Its membership is open to persons of other beliefs, also.

Since its founding, this chapter has maintained the highest scholastic rating of any fraternity located at Loyola.

In keeping with the spirit of social fraternity, Tau Delta Phi sponsors many social functions throughout the year. On the athletic side, the Tau Deltas have distinguished themselves in the intramural competition. Tau Eta has always been one of the top competitors in the Olympic Week Games.

Tau Eta's participation in university activities is of both a diverse and universal nature. Despite the fine advances since its inception, Tau Eta will never stop striving in its attempt to make Tau Delta Phi one of the finest of Loyola's fraternities.

Theta Phi Alpha was initiated on the campus of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1912 under the guidance of Bishop Edward D. Kelly of Detroit.

Bishop Kelly, then Auxiliary Bishop of that city, realized the need for a Catholic women's group to promote the religious, educational and social aspects of campus life. The ties of a common religion allowed to flourish in a home atmosphere provided by a chapter house could advance the interests of young women not only on the campus but would continue their Christian ideals after college days.

In 1918, the sorority begun on the Ann Arbor campus became the Alpha Chapter of Theta Phi Alpha. Soon after, Theta Phi was accepted for membership in the National Panhellenic Conference. Today, it is one of the thirty-one members of the N.P.C. of women's fraternities founded on the campuses of accredited universities and colleges throughout the nation; the chapter roll of Theta Phi Alpha numbers twenty-two. Upsilon chapter of Theta Phi was established at Loyola on March 7, 1943.

The year's schedule of Theta Phi Alpha activities at Loyola began with a formal tea for the foreign students enrolled in Loyola. Two rushing parties are hosted by the actives each semester before new rushees are accepted as pledges. The three month pledge period ended with a formal initiation of sixteen girls at the Kungsholm. For Thanksgiving the Philanthropy Committee of the sorority sponsored a campus wide food and toy drive. For Christmas the actives and pledges entertained at Radke's Convalescent and Nursing Home. On March 6, 1955, the Upsilon Chapter celebrated their twelfth anniversary at Loyola with a birthday party. One of the outstanding events of the sorority calendar was the annual White Rose Ball held on May 7, 1955. The highlight of Theta Phi activities was Founder's Day which was celebrated on the feast of St. Catherine of Siena, patroness of the sorority, on April 30.

Founded in 1938 on the Lake Shore Campus, the University Club began chiefly as an athletic organization. After a few years the Club was organized as a social fraternity, and now its members consist of students from Lake Shore and Lewis Towers.

Under the capable guidance of Father Cletus Hartman, S.J., Moderator, the University Club has adopted a year-round social program extending through the summer. The University Club has always attempted to afford its members with a varied schedule of activities. Activities during the school year include sleigh rides, picnics, group outings, and closed parties. Summer activities consist of picnics, week-end outings, and facilities for spending the entire summer together at a summer cottage. Thus the policy of the University Club is to promote new activities and enable members to enjoy a year-round social program.

The officers of the U-Club combine their efforts in having the pledges perform many services and benefits to Loyola and to Chicago such as counseling and instructing at the C.Y.O. and making their services available to Loyola when needed.

Accounting Club

Since the Loyola University Accounting Club was founded in 1949, it has been one of the most active organizations in the College of Commerce. To meet the society's general purpose of furthering the study in and promoting the advancement of the field of accounting, leaders in the accounting profession are brought in as guest speakers. Field trips are promoted. Group and individual study of problems and the theory of accounting are discussed among the group which in turn stimulates its interest.

Economics Society

Since the re-organization of the Economics Society of Loyola University in 1946, it has striven to maintain new projects for the club at all times. The club not only encourages the students in the College of Commerce to join, but also extends its membership to Arts students as well.

On the academic side, the club has round-table discussions with other colleges, and they also show weekly movies of economic interest. They also promote other functions which help advance the reason for which they became organized.

The persons whose names appear on this page are those who are responsible for the production of the 1955 Towers. It was through their time and effort that we were able to provide the Commerce School, and you the students of that school, with this yearbook. To them we extend our thanks for having spent long and tedious hours in compiling this book. We hope that their efforts will serve as the basis for further achievements in producing future yearbooks.

The same form of organization initiated last year by the Towers staff served as the foundation for our committees this year. There were two editors, Financial and Production, who undertook the responsibility of the co-editorship. This year Joe Weber and Jack Calderini were appointed to fill these positions.

Joe Weber and his staff are to be commended for a job well done in making the financial arrangements. Jack Calderini, through the assistance afforded him by his staff was able to produce the necessary material in order to make this book possible.

It was a hard job, but we feel that the personal satisfaction derived from such an endeavor is a sufficient reward for our efforts. We sincerely hope that the efforts of all the people concerned has helped to make 1955 a memorable year for the students of the College of Commerce.

Sodality

No words can better describe the Sodality here at Loyola than the preamble to their constitution.

The Queen of the Most Holy Rosary Sodality is an affiliate of the Prima Primaria Sodality, an association founded by the Society of Jesus and approved by the Holy See, which is a religious body aiming at fostering in its members an ardent devotion, reverence, and filial love toward the Blessed Virgin Mary. Through this devotion and with the protection of so good a mother it seeks to make the faithful gathered together under her name good Catholics, sincerely bent on sanctifying themselves, each in his state of life, and zealous, as far as their conditions in life permit, to save and sanctify their neighbor and to defend the Church of Jesus Christ.

The Sodality has worked long and unceasingly in promoting spiritual exercises and the students salute them for the fine work they have done.

Rev. Joseph Hogan, S.J., student counsellor and moderator of the sodalities at Lewis Towers, was promoted this year from major to lieutenant colonel in the Army reserve.

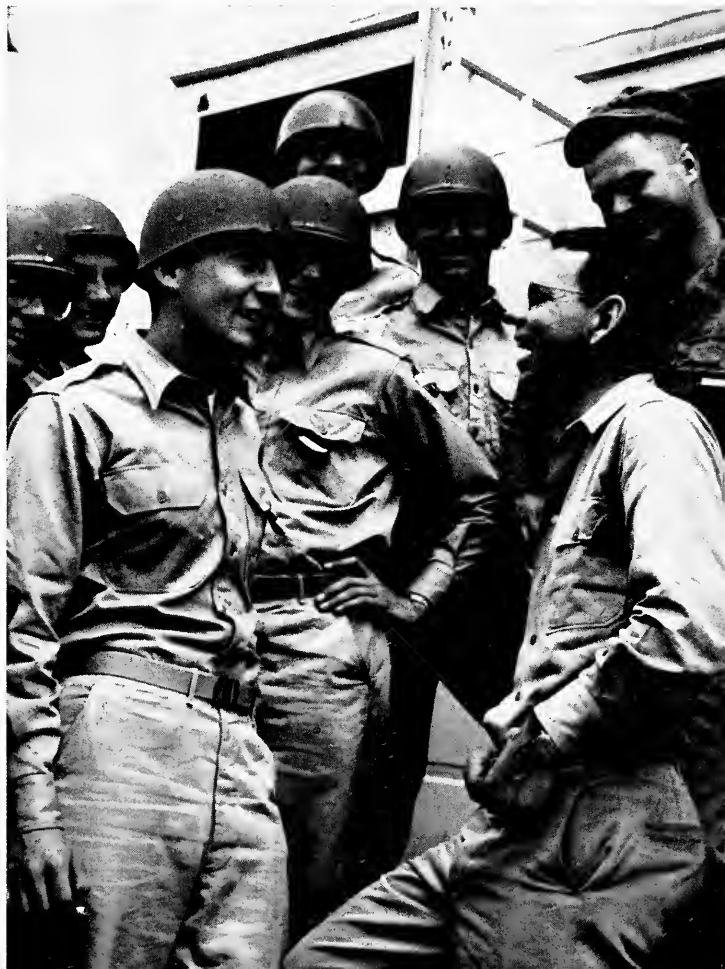

This is but one of the many honors which the Army has bestowed upon Fr. Hogan. During World War II he was awarded the Bronze Star medal with a "V" for valor, along with the Army Commendation Ribbon.

During the summer Fr. Hogan, like all reservists, attends a summer training period. Last year Fr. Hogan was assigned to Ft. Leonardwood, Mo. During his tour he met many Loyola grads.

As Chaplain of Loyola's R.O.T.C. unit, Fr. Hogan visits the various encampments at which Loyola's corps is represented.

Fr. Hogan received his high school education at Loyola Academy, and then entered the Society of Jesus. He received his M.A. and S.P.L. from St. Louis University. Before the war, he taught philosophy and religion at Loyola. During the war he served in the European theater.

1955 Story

immediately after our return from the long vacation. The ballots were returned and it was revealed that Arthur Herman, James Cullinan, William Waters, Richard Ripoli and Richard Spillane had been elected as our representatives. Dennis Price, Council appointee and sixth man of the Commerce contingent, was elected Treasurer of the Loyola Union.

Midnight oil brightened many rooms and the aroma of coffee filled almost every home as the final period approached. Somehow we got through the misty fog which was caused by a lack of sleep, cramming, and the cigarettes of forty nervous classmates with results that were quite astonishing. In fact, we may have surprised ourselves!

After a two-week vacation between semesters everyone was ready for another semester. The stamina acquired over the long vacation was sufficient to tide us over another semester.

Elections were held on February 20 for President of the Loyola Union. Charles McKiel was honored as the first graduate-level student to be named as President of the Union.

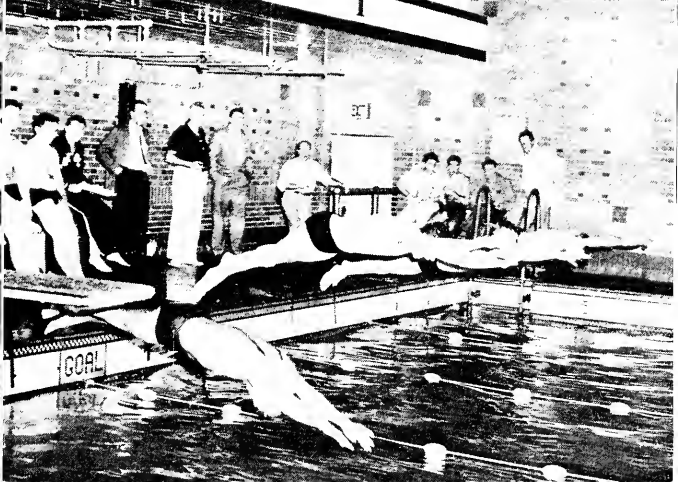

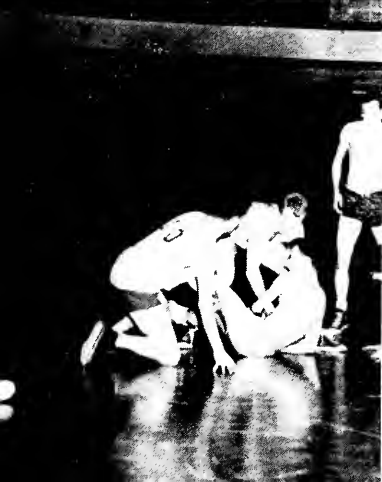

Later in the week, Miss Pat Keane, Lewis Towers freshman, was named Rose of Delta Sigma Pi by the members of that fraternity. She represented the local chapter in National competition held in the spring.

Such expressions as "throw the rascals out" and "vote for the people's choice" began to be heard around the campus as Loyolans became actively interested in the mayoral campaign. On March 10, Republican Robert Merriam and Democrat Richard Daly debated campaign issues before a standing room only crowd in the School of Law Assembly Hall. Later, in a straw poll conducted by the Loyola News, the students selected Merriam as their choice to lead Chicago. However, as it later turned out, the students' choice was not the people's choice.

St. Patrick's Day spread a feeling of gaiety throughout the school. A mixer was given on St. Patrick's Night and served as an excellent break during Lent. Various parties were given by the different organizations for their own encounters with a day of freedom.

On the last Saturday in March, the fourth annual Commerce-Arts Variety Show entertained a packed house in the Victory Room on the Lake Shore Campus. After weeks of rehearsal and hard work, a top notch show was put on by our student talent.

Basketball Record

Basketball fans at Loyola have much to look forward to in the coming year. For the first time in three seasons the Ramblers have finished above the .500 mark. This year's team won 13 of the 24 games on their extremely rough schedule, and with four of the top five regulars returning they will attempt to better this record. The only graduate of the team will be Art Schalk who finished a fabulous four years as a Loyola athlete. He was the captain of this year's team and led the scorers with a total of 381 points for a 15.8 average. He also was the top rebounder, snaring 271 miscues from the backboards.

Along with the returning lettermen from this year's squad, will be the huge freshman team which compiled a 16 win and 2 loss record for their season. They scored at an average of 69.5 points per game, while their excellent defense held the opposition to a 49.6 average. The freshman starting team averaged approximately 6 ft. 4 inch. and will present a welcome sight to the varsity who lacked an abundance of tall players.

Statistically speaking, improvement over last year's season was shown. The squad scored 267 points more than in the previous season and held their opponents to only a 132 point gain. They also improved their total point average by moving from a 71.8 average in the 53-54 season to an 80.0 average this past season. With the experience received this year, plus greater height and more depth for next year, the basketball fans at Loyola can look forward to a season in which these previous marks will be surpassed.

The highlight of the season was the upset achieved by the Ramblers in their last game of the season at the expense of the University of Louisville. Already having accepted a bid to play in the National Invitational Tournament, the Kentuckians came into the Chicago Stadium with a tremendous height advantage. They jumped to an early lead, but the Ramblers, not to be denied, overcame this deficit, which was as high as 14 points, and beat their rivals 75 to 70 in a thriller. Just as a matter of precedent, Jerry Lyne, a junior who finished behind Schalk in scoring with 384 points, proved that a winning team can win even with a height disadvantage. Lyne being the smallest player on the floor at 5 ft. 10 in. led both teams with 28 points, and sparked the Loyola rally.

The other games on the Chicago Stadium card also added to the excitement of the fans. Two of the top teams in the Big Ten Conference came into the Stadium and gave opposition to the Ramblers. The Big Ten Champion, Iowa, was the first team to take on the Ramblers, and received quite a scare from Loyola before staving off a last minute rally to win by ten points 89 to 79. The other Big Ten team was the University of Illinois. In this game the Illini broke a Stadium single team scoring record by beating Loyola 95 to 68. But the Ramblers later knocked this record off the books by beating the University of Western Michigan 99 to 75. The Loyola attack avenged an earlier defeat of 88 to 84 by the same Broncos. Loyola was led by center Jack Carpenter, who ranked fourth in the season's scoring with 290 points, 30 of these points coming in this game.

Added to Lyne and Carpenter, Coach Ireland has Ed Stube, a great clutch player and third highest scorer with 335 points, and Paul Krucker, fifth highest scorer with 212 points to form the nucleus of a team of which any follower may be proud.

Track Team

At the Daily News Relays, in which all Universities in the Chicago area participated, Loyola did a splendid job before a television audience. In this meet, the mile was run by Max Muchowicz, Pete Fox, Bob Saddler and Jack Egan. The two-mile relay was run by Captain Ray Mayer, Pete Fox, Bob Saddler and Jack Kiley. They witnessed victories in the Milwaukee Journal Relays, Chicago Daily News Relays and the North Central College Relays in Naperville.

The distance medley consists of Jack Egan, Pete Fox, Bob Saddler and Ray Mayer. This year they did not win many meets, but made impressive showings at many of the more important meets.

The Loyola track team's future is bright. The team loses the services of only one man, the able captain, Ray Mayer. In spite of this fact, there are many promising freshmen on the squad who will try to compensate for this loss. These include Jack Kiley, Mike Curran, Ed Biesinger, Terry Noseck, Don Griffith, Ron Kammeret and Bill Dolan.

Swimming Team

Under the able coaching of Don Chalmers, and assisted by the Co-captains Jack Sullivan and Larry Leaveck the swimming team finished its season with nine wins and four losses. They also captured the Chicago Intercollegiate Championship and finished second in the Midwest Invitational Championships.

The mermen were led by Al Wagner who set a new 200-yard breaststroke record of 2:32.7 and also by John Van Wormer who is the holder of two university records. He broke the old record in the 440-yd. freestyle with a 5:08.0 and a 1:37.9 in the 150-yd. individual medley.

Jack Sullivan, the team's star diver won consistently and also captured the Chicago Intercollegiate and Midwest Invitational diving crowns.

The backstroke department was handled by John Dunne, Don Veverka, Jim Allen and Ray Van De Walle.

Larry Leaveck and Bob Bobowski were the distance swimmers. Freshman Jack Bolger swam individual medley. Sprint racers include Tom Gilmore and Joe Doody.

One of the biggest feats of the season was the defeat of Northwestern University. This was the first time that the swimming team defeated a Big Ten team in twenty-five years.

The Loyola University Drill Team, a voluntary organization composed of students from all four classes of Military Science, was organized in February, 1952, and entered intercollegiate competition in 1953.

In both 1953 and 1954 the team has been awarded trophies at the Purdue University Invitational Drill Meet in platoon competition with drill units from colleges throughout the eastern and mid-west states.

In addition, the team has given exhibitions in the Chicago Stadium, on TV and on special occasions by requests of various organizations.

At the present time, Cadet Captain Conrad J. Irving is the Drill Master.

Intramurals

Since physical development is an integral part of any well-balanced system of education and since it is essential for the moral and physical training of any individual, Loyola University has inaugurated an intramural program for the students. The Intramural Board has been organized to conduct these events in accordance with the principles set forth in the Loyola Intramural Constitution.

This year the Intramural Board was composed of Joseph Carini and Bill Goodfellow, under the able supervision of the faculty moderator and physical training instructor, Mr. Leonard Zimny.

The following contests were run this year: touch football, football accuracy throw, table tennis, turkey trot, volleyball, freethrow contest, basketball, horse-shoes, badminton, softball, chess and checkers.

There were nine teams entered in the Loyola intramural program. In the football accuracy contest, Mike Revane of the B.V.D.'s tied the old record set by Denny O'Brien of Delta Sigma Pi. In five years of I.M. competition, no one man has ever won it twice.

Cementing another established intramural tradition by winning the intramural touch football tournament, the Rough Guys repeated as title holders in turning back a determined Alpha Delta Gamma team in the championship game 8-0. Only two teams have ever won the touch-football tournament outright in the nine years it has been an intramural sport. The Angels and the Rough Guys were the only two teams who have accomplished this feat.

Bill Strong won his third consecutive table tennis singles as he beat Ed Zebang of the B.V.D.'s in straight sets, 21-15, 21-15 and 21-17.

The usual cold, gloomy weather prevailed for the running of the 3rd annual Union-sponsored turkey trot along the shores of Lake Michigan. Lou Battiato of Alpha Kappa Psi took first place.

The B.V.D.'s took first place in the volleyball contest.

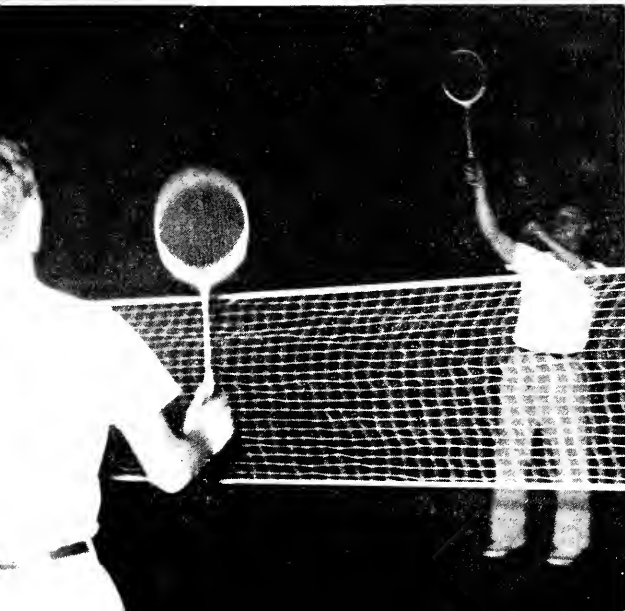

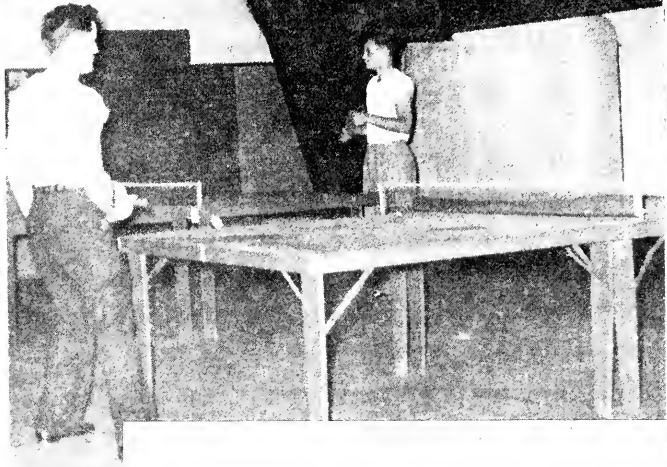

The winners of the chess and checkers tournament were Bill Strong and Fuad Al Wattar. This contest won its way back after a two year absence from the intramural roster at Lewis Towers.

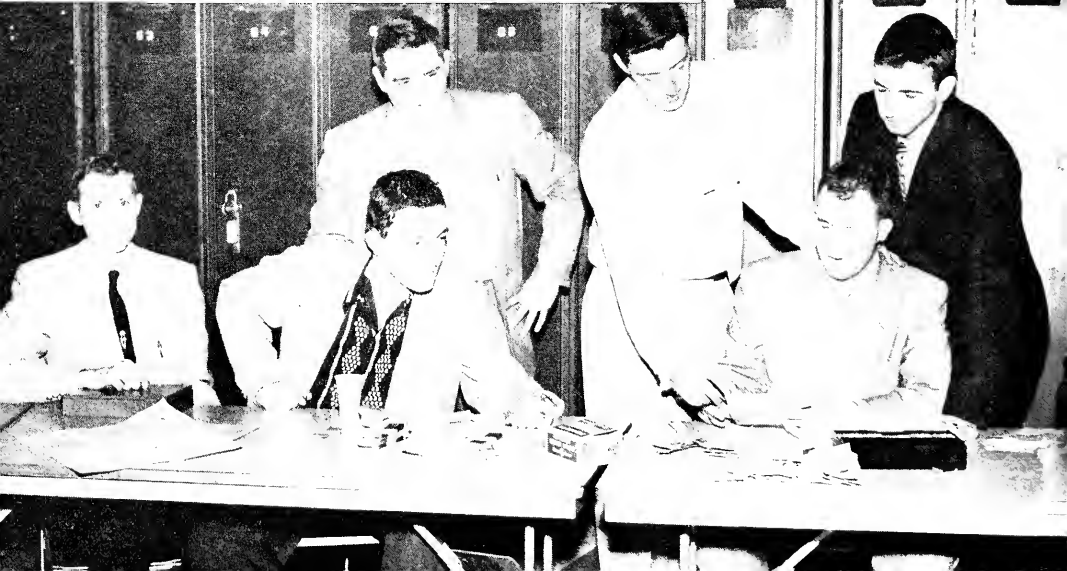

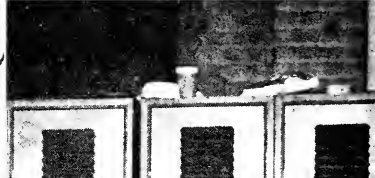

In the free throw contest, we saw Tom Kelly beat Tom Moran in the throw-off for the free throw contest.

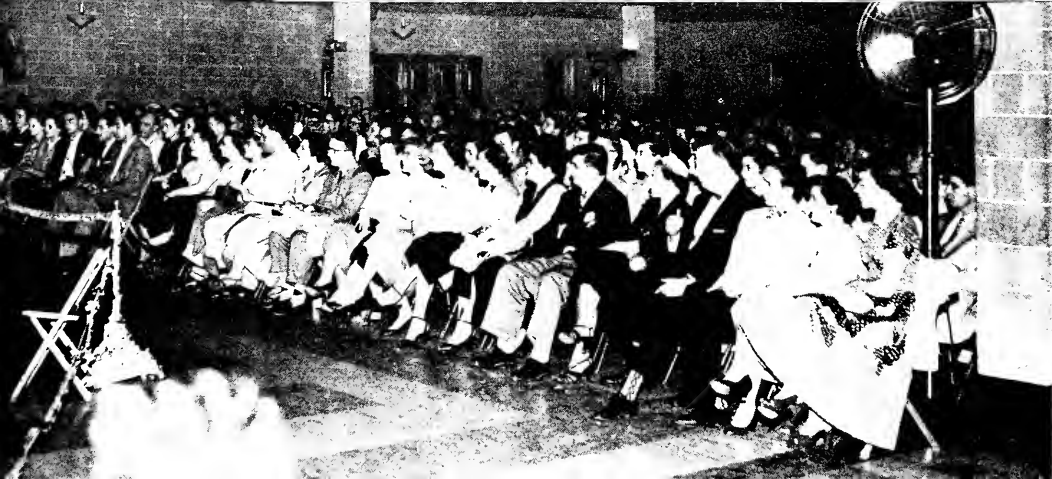

The basketball crown was won by the B.V.D.'s. They defeated the Rough Guys 47-45 to win this crown. This year, we witnessed the best basketball tournament ever held at Lewis Towers.

Alpha Kappa Psi won the team trophy for the intramural program. They accumulated the largest number of points for participating in the program.

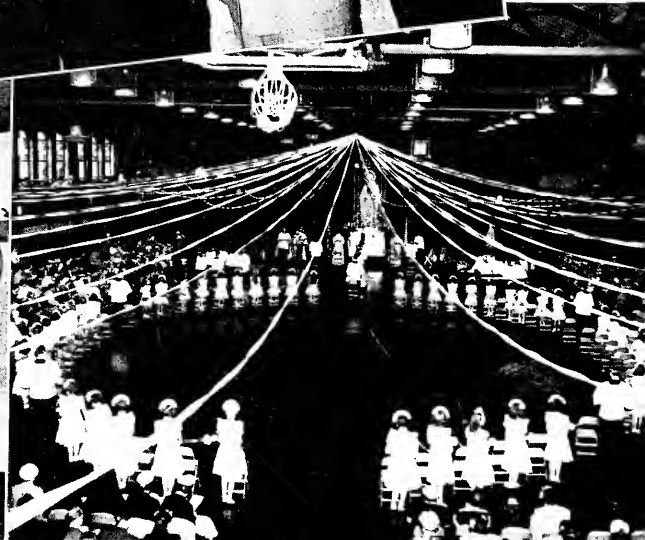

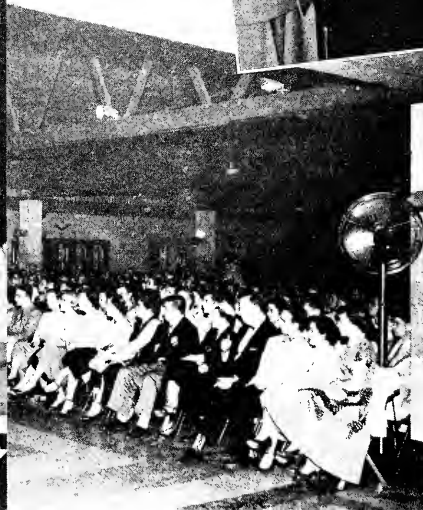

At the time that this article was written, there still remained a few contests. However, it is still apparent that 1955 was a very successful year for the L.T. athletes.

The Commerce Council sponsored the third annual Honor's Day Banquet on the evening of May 5th in the Victory Room of the Lake Shore Union House. This affair was also a farewell for the graduating seniors. Mr. William H. Conley was the guest speaker. Mr. Conley, assistant to the President of Marquette University was formerly Dean of the College of Commerce here at Loyola. His talk included a survey of what the graduating seniors might expect in the business world they were soon to face.

At this annual affair, certain awards and keys are presented to students who distinguish themselves for outstanding scholarship and leadership. Only graduating seniors are eligible for keys, but leadership and scholarship certificates may be awarded to undergraduates.

Dean's Keys are given to seniors who are conspicuous for their loyalty, self-sacrifice, and achievement in extracurricular activities. This is perhaps the most highly esteemed of leadership awards.

The Alumni Scholarship Award is a gold key given to the student with the highest scholastic average for his entire college program.

Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi, professional fraternities in the field of commerce, also present keys to the students of scholastic excellence. These keys are awarded by the fraternities' moderators.

The scholarship certificate is designed to serve as an acknowledgment of high scholastic performance in the past and to offer incentive for its continuation in future years. To students who have distinguished themselves as outstanding participants and leaders in student activities go the certificates of leadership.

Following the distribution of awards, there was dancing to the music of Win Buettgen. This helped climax the evening as one of the most important events in a student's career in the College of Commerce.

OFFICERS

- Robert Mullen ..... President
Secretary, Commerce Council
Congressman, Loyola Union
 Mary Alice McKinney ..... Vice-President
 Stephen Duzansky ..... Secretary-Treasurer

In spite of the fact that most of the Freshmen's time is consumed in getting acquainted with college ways, pledging and many other things, they have been able to prove themselves an important factor in the success which the College of Commerce has enjoyed.

Robert Mullen, President of this Class, has done a fine job in getting his class to cooperate with the rest of the College. Besides being President, he also was appointed as a Congressman to the Loyola Union.

Mary Alice McKinney, Vice-President of this class is responsible for the "Party Line".

Stephen Duzansky was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the class and proved himself a hard worker.

We hope that they will continue to advance with this fine spirit of cooperation and thus act as an example for the Freshman class of next year.

This year, the Juniors are anticipating their move into Senior year. This attitude for the most part has changed and they are looking more to the future to see what it has in store for them. This is the year in which they began their field of concentration. Now as they prepare to enter Senior year, we only hope that they have made the right choice.

Dennis J. Price, President of the Junior Class and Vice-President of the Student Council did a fine job in representing his class in the College of Commerce. In January he was chosen to represent the College of Commerce in the Loyola Union. He was later elected Treasurer of the Union.

James Cullinan, Vice-President of the Junior Class, did a very good job in promoting a brochure relating a short history about the instructors in the College of Commerce.

William Duffy, Secretary-Treasurer of the Junior Class, worked tirelessly and incessantly on council activities. He was truly an unsung hero.

1955 Story

It is the general consensus of opinion that this was the best variety show of them all.

On April 19, Alpha Kappa Psi, a professional commerce fraternity, presented its annual Career Day. Prominent businessmen from each of the fields of commerce gave the sophomores the highlights of their profession in order to help them choose their fields of concentration more easily.

The Sophomore English Achievement Test tantalized the brains of our eager second year students on April 29. Those who survived sought to regain their usual sunny outlook that night and for two nights thereafter along with an all-famous orchestra which supplied the music for the three-day Fair. Numerous booths were set up around the Lake Shore football field in order to offer a variety of entertainment for both young and old alike.

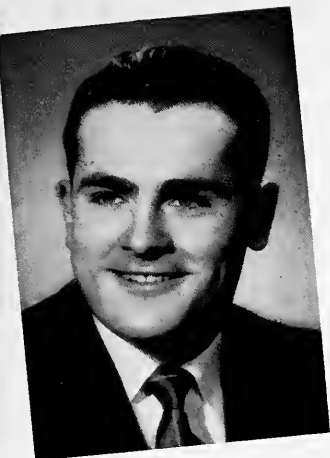

We entered into a serious pursuit of learning during May for we knew that this was the last month of a long school year. After school many of us made arrangements for that summer job which made satisfaction of that pesky habit of eating easier. Seniors were making plans for that big day, and for the time thereafter.

The College of Commerce honored its outstanding students at the Senior Dinner Dance and Honors Day Banquet on May 5th. The top seniors were rewarded for four years of relentless toil and determination. Other scholars and leaders received recognition for their own intellectual and social achievements. After the keys and certificates were distributed we returned to the seclusion of our rooms to prepare for the last series of final exams.

Seniors lingered for a few more days to put finishing touches on four wonderful years. Baccalaureate Services were held at Madonna della Strada Chapel on June 5th. This was the last time that many of the graduates would attend this beautiful chapel by the lake. With the Commencement Exercises on June 8th, the four years at Loyola come to an end. All will go home and display their degrees as a token of what they have received for laborious efforts.

So the year ends, approximately 90 well-rounded men pass through the portals of Loyola University as products of the Jesuit Fathers who administer here. The time has come when each must learn to take himself, the whole man, and carry on what he was taught under their guidance.

In Retrospect

Before we close the cover on another year, let us review what the past year has held for us. We know that it has some wonderful events enfolded within its embrace which we will cherish and which we will never want to forget. The editors and staff hope that the 1955 Towers will aid you to preserve them in years to come.

We would like, at this time, to thank all the people who helped make this annual possible. This book could never have reached the press without their assistance.

First, we would like to thank Mr. Raymond Langen of Campus Service, our publisher, whose valuable advice, assistance and personal interest helped make this book possible. We would also like to acknowledge the assistance offered by Mr. Merrill Chase of Merrill Chase Studios. Our appreciation is also extended to Mr. Harry McCloskey and Mr. Daniel Cahill for their interest and deep concern in furnishing us with information which we could not obtain elsewhere. Recognition is also given to Dean J. R. Sheriff whose interest and deep concern in our endeavor added incentive to our work. A special note of gratitude to the Loyola News for their fine spirit in helping us to publish this book. With their co-operation, our job was made easier.

Our greatest thanks, however, goes to the student body and the faculty who requested the book. We thank you for giving us the opportunity to serve you and your school.

With the completion of the 1955 Towers it is the fond dream and hope of your editors that those who follow us will have the same enthusiasm and spirit that we tried to put into this book.

The 1955 Towers is more than a history of a year at Loyola, it is a heart-warming review of the hours, days, and years spent with our friends at the Towers. Yes, it is more than a mere history of a school year; it is the story of each and every student enrolled in that school.

And finally, as the cover closes, remember we are all members of the same Army. As we prepare to face the business world, let us all be like St. Ignatius of Loyola and charge into battle with our banner raised high. And on this banner let there be inscribed our motto — AD MAJOREM DEI GLORIAM.
